Our History

On March 11, 1978, the deed to the property was conveyed to the Schuylkill County Council for the Arts by the heirs of Mrs. Catherine Yuengling.

After sixty-five years, this family homestead has become a community center housing a professional and volunteer staff dedicated to fostering growth in the art and ethnic heritage of Schuylkill County.

Originally, the home of the Yuengling family, the owners of America's oldest brewery, this property became the Art and Ethnic Center, the home of the Schuylkill County Council for the Arts in March 1978. The heirs of Augusta Yuengling donated the house and grounds specifically to provide Schuylkill County with a home for cultural and arts activities. Thanks in part to the generosity of the Yuengling family, the SCCA has continued to grow and establish a variety of innovative programs that reach thousands of people across the region. The home was entered on the National Register of Historic Places in Washington

Your History!
